Fort Myers: 60 minutes

Miami: 3.0 hours

Tampa: 3.0 hours

Orlando: 4.0 hours

By Boat:

From the Intracoastal Waterway:

The new channel has a 7-foot depth and begins just north of the Intracoastal Waterway at Red marker #38 (approximately 25 yards North). First alternate channel marker will be a Red #24. Keep the Red markers to port (left). Keep the Green markers to starboard (right). The alternate channel will head West/South west at markers #19 and #20. The channel will turn to the Northwest towards Redfish Pass. Keep the Red markers to port (left). Keep the Green markers to starboard (right). Once the boat reaches markers #10 and #11 in the alternate channel, South Seas Marina will be on the left. Please note that due to the impact of Hurricanes Helene and Milton, both the Yacht Harbour and Captiva Landing Marina are closed. Dockage and fuel service are anticipated to be unavailable for several months.

From the Gulf of Mexico through Redfish Pass:

Do not follow GPS on boat or boating charts. Redfish Pass is local knowledge only. Water ranges from 8 feet to 30 feet through this pass. There are 4 floating markers outside of Redfish Pass: Green #1, Red #2, Red #4, and Green #5. To pick up the Green marker #1, the boat must be 1 mile due west of Redfish Pass. When the first Green marker #1 is located, put it to port (left) and follow the markers through the pass. Once the boat comes through Redfish Pass, turn South along the seawall for about 400 yards. Pass Green marker #7 (to port) and Green marker #9 (to port). South Seas Marina will be on the right. Please note that due to the impact of Hurricanes Helene and Milton, both the Yacht Harbour and Captiva Landing Marina are closed. Dockage and fuel service are anticipated to be unavailable for several months.
